My dear friend

268

Until I saw R D Webb last evening, I did not entirely relinquish the hope of seeing you again in Ireland, & of shaking your hand once more in my own house, where you would receive a cordial welcome from all my family - But that hope has passed away, & I take my pen to assure you, that I still love & esteem you highly, & to offer you my congratulations that you have lived to see the great object to which you have devoted so many years of your life, accomplished. And I hope the colored men in America, whose emancipation is in so large a measure due to your noble exertions on their behalf, will long prove themselves, - as I believe they are now doing, - worthy of all the pains taken by their friends, to place them on a footing of equality with the other citizens in your States. The means used to effect that great measure of justice, are now in the history of the past. I have felt some pain at the altered course which I believe you to have taken, in that regard, but I never for a moment doubted that you acted all through, in accordance with the honest convictions of your heart, I should therefore have real pleasure in meeting you. & reviewing our happy intercourse of former years. I write you now, lest I may not have that pleasure in Manchester, at annual meeting of the United Kingdom Alliance, on the 22nd Inst. To see you, will be a great additional inducement to me to attend that meeting, but then I have been in Belfast lately, attending an interesting Congress there, & I do not feel it easy to move from home again, & the sea is an obstacle I never like to meet. I am now in my 73rd year, less busy active, or free from many little ailments, attending on advanced years. Yet I have great reason to be very thankful in that respect, for on the whole, my health is good, & I am yet able to do a little work in some of the movements, for social improvement, to which I have given a portion of my life for many years.

If I shall be able once more to see & talk with you a few friendly words, it will be a great pleasure to me, if not, accept these few lines as an evidence of my continued esteem for you, & my best wishes for your safe return home, where I trust you will yet enjoy many years, in active labor for benefit of your fellow men.

Dear friends Rod & Jas. Webb, whom I met last evening at a pleasant anniversary meeting of The Friends association for mutual improvement, told me of the pleasant time they have recently spent with you & some other friends, in traveling over some of the beautiful portions of Europe - From them I learned that you were to sail for home on the 26th Inst. Wishing you a pleasant voyage
I remain yours sincerely & affly James K. Vaughan

What of our friend H. C. Wright, I have not heard a word of him for a long time. I would like to be kindly remembered to him, & also to Parker Pillsbury, if opportunity should offer.
